Statement by John Loughlin Regarding Mosque at Ground Zero

"I disagree with President Obama's support of the construction of a mosque at the site where thousands of Americans were killed by radical Islamic jihadists," said John Loughlin, Republican candidate for Congress in RI-1.

"All of us support the right of people to practice their religion. No one would deny that to Muslims or any other faith. That is not at issue here. Out of deference to the wishes of the families of the deceased, and to deny extremists fodder for their anti-American propaganda, we should not construct a mosque at Ground Zero. I believe we should look for an alternative location that would permit Muslims a new place to worship while also respecting the memories of the fallen."
